

ANARCHY AT ENID.

U. S. Land Commissioner Taken from His Home,

And Threatened With Death by a Mob.

THE LAW IS DEFIED.

Fears That Judge Burford Will Be Assassinated.

ENID, Ok., April 10.—There is a most deplorable condition of affairs in this town. Friday United States Land Commissioner Blair and others held a quiet meeting to discuss a way to bring about a consolidation of the two Enids. Saturday night his home was surrounded by a large mob of men, his house broken open and the land commissioner taken out and threatened with instant death if he did not reveal the names of the men who attended the meeting. Although an old man, Mr. Blair defied the mob and appealed to Federal Judge Burford for protection.

Judge Burford was evidently aroused over the outburst that has been running riot here of late and in the sternest language he commanded the mob to disperse and turn Blair loose, and if the civil authorities of Enid and O county were not able to preserve peace and afford citizens protection from lawless mobs he would call the federal troops at Fort Reno to his assistance and would arrest and prosecute every man who was engaged in such reprehensible work. The constitution guaranteed every man the right of action and opinion, and he ordered the mob to immediately disperse and permit Mr. Blair to return to his home or they would suffer the consequences.

Later the same evening the mob returned to Blair's office, where his wife was, dragged her out and treated her to the most shocking indignities. Judge Burford immediately convened the federal grand jury and it is yet in session. Mrs. Blair was summoned before that body and is still on the stand. Blair spent the day in North Enid for protection and yesterday morning was escorted into town by twenty deputies to enable him to swear out warrants against his would-be murderers. The mob included many of the leading citizens of the town. There will be wholesale indictments and no less than 100 arrests.

George Orpurn of the Citizens' bank has been notified that he will be strung up if he shows his head in the town. The lives of other citizens are threatened, and there is no telling when they will be shot down in cold blood. Judge Burford says it is a most startling state of affairs, and he will use every power at his command to crush out the lawless element. There is a dread among the people that he will be assassinated by those who are determined to kill or rule. When the mob assaulted Mrs. Blair she drew a navy, but was knocked down before she could use it. The situation is now the most serious in the history of the towns.

THE COXEYITES MUST RETURN.

Southern Pacific Road Enjoined From Bringing Industrial Army Into Utah.

OGDEN, Utah, April 10.—Last evening Judge Miner and Merritt signed a mandatory restraining order on the Southern Pacific railroad restraining them from keeping or allowing the industrial army brought by said railroad company "unlawfully into said territory" and ordering them all back into the twenty-seven box cars or from keeping any portion of the army in the territory any longer in the territory than is absolutely necessary to carry them away. This means that the Southern Pacific must at once carry the army back from whence it came. It is stated that United States Marshal Brigham will enforce the order compelling the army to return to the box cars at once.

The result of the injunction has caused much excitement, as it is known there will be great danger of trouble in enforcing it. The industrial army have repeatedly asserted that they will not go back, and developments of an exciting nature may be looked for. Judge Marshall, attorney for the Southern Pacific railroad, gave notice of appeal to the supreme court from the order of the court. He asked for a stay of execution until the appeal could be heard. The request was denied by the court.

WILD PANIC IN A SCHOOL.

One Child Killed and a Score Injured in Escaping From Imagined Peril.

CHICAGO, April 10.—A panic occurred in Humboldt public school yesterday afternoon and in the rush of the children to escape from the building one boy was killed and over a score were crushed and trampled. Fourteen children lie in St. Elizabeth's hospital under the care of physicians, while others were carried to their homes by the police.

The children were preparing to leave for a recess when a loud explosion started every teacher and pupil. A steam pipe had broken in one of the rooms and a moment later the children were rushing pell-mell through the halls and down the stairs shrieking with fear. They fell by dozens and were trampled beneath hurried feet until the stairs were covered with unconscious bodies.

When the shrieking children fled into the streets some one turned in the alarm of fire and in a few minutes the fire and police departments were on the scene. The fireman soon removed fifteen children who were hurried to Elizabeth's hospital. On the way one boy died. He was David Gunstein, No. 702 Dania avenue. Among the injured and likely to die is Grace Schubert, daughter of Fire Marshal Schubert.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 10.—To the great surprise of all except his immediate attorneys, Theodore P. Haughey, ex-president of the Indianapolis National bank, which failed July 25, 1893, appeared before Judge Baker of the United States district court, yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock and pleaded guilty to having systematically wrecked the bank and having embezzled funds to the amount of nearly $1,000,000.

He has been for forty years the most trusted man in the city and the curtain is now closing. The court announced he would sentence the prisoner after the trials of the accessories. ### A BLUFF.

And between the Two of Them They Came to Grief.

He looked rather lugubrious, and his chum hailed him to know what it was about.

"Well, ah—that is, it's about Miss Alice."

"Turned you down, has she?" Well, I know an awfully nice girl that I'll introduce you to. I call on her sister rather often, and you could keep her in the back parlor while—"

"Thanks awfully, but you're wrong, as usual. You see, it's this way. Miss Alice is devoted to the opera, and for weeks she's been talking about 'dear Eames,' and 'lovely Melba,' and 'that adorable De Reszke.' I knew of course what she meant, but I was dead broke and meant to keep out of her way until she'd made her father take a box."

"Go it, my boy. I'll always think you've something in your head after this."

"But I happened to meet her on the street the other day as I was on my way to strike you for a loan. I was going to slip past, but she caught me; said she was just on her way to get tickets to the opera, and wouldn't I go with her to select the seats, she had so much faith in my judgment."

"After that, if I know you, you went."

"I did. When our turn came, I selected the seats; then I went through the motion of putting my hand in my pocket for the money, though I knew there was none there. She never said a word, the ticket seller grinned, and the man back of me growled. A cold perspiration broke out all over me, and I stammered:

"Really, Miss Alice, I'm awfully sorry, but I must have left my notebook at the office, and I haven't a cent with me. You ought to have seen the look she gave me."

"Well, it was tough, but she understood."

"Indeed she did, but it was a great deal worse than you think, for she was trying to bluff me, too—she hadn't a cent either. Oh, she'll never forgive me as long as she lives."

"And in the presence of grief like this consolation seemed indeed a hollow mockery.—Chicago Tribune.

Continued to Grow Worse

And we took him to a doctor. He said it was scrofula, but his treatment failed, and we called upon three other physicians, who termed it salt rheum or eczema. Even then he grew worse. A crust would gather on his head as thick as a quarter and puff up with corruption. Then it would come off, taking the hair with it. About three months ago we resolved to try Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Olive Ointment. To-day we are happy to say that Burton is now Entirely Well.

The sores have all disappeared and his hair is growing nicely. He has only taken one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and used one box of
